Care and Maintenance

I. General Information

There are certain precautions to be exercised that apply to any and all wood finishes.

1. Avoid exposing furniture to direct sunlight. The color may change, and the finish may deteriorate from prolonged exposure to sunlight.
2. Maintain a relatively constant temperature and humidity in your building. Excess heat or cold can cause cracking, warping, and checking of wood in furniture. There are certain suppliers of humidifiers who can provide units specifically engineered to service your building.
3. Protect furniture from direct wetting. Moisture left on any wood finish will cause deterioration to the finish and materials.

II. Care of Wood Surfaces

The purpose of cleaning and polishing is to provide protection from excessive wear to the finish. Cleaning and polishing of your product should be done as needed.

1. Use lemon oil to wipe down furniture as needed. Follow the manufacturer's suggested application when applying lemon oil to your wood product.
2. Use furniture polish to repair a scratch or blemish that has not penetrated the finish. If this solution does not remedy your problem, you should contact a service professional to repair the issue.

III. Care of Upholstered Surfaces

Routinely vacuum, with a wand only, loose particles from upholstered furniture. Dust and gritty particles can become embedded in the upholstery and cause excessive wear. For stains refer to the cleaning code noted on the back of your fabric card. Contact Sauder Manufacturing Co. for any help needed in acquiring this information.

Cleaning Code "CP"

This information is provided only as a service and should not be interpreted as warranty. Cleaning and spot-cleaning results may vary in individual case. If you have any questions consult a professional dry cleaner.

IV. Miscellaneous Maintenance

Over a period of time minor changes can appear. Loosening of accessories, breakage during the course of use, or loosening of the floor anchorage. These can easily be remedied by your building maintenance person. The manufacturer will provide replacement parts when required and procedural assistance if needed.
